THE DELOS MAY WORK

This Copper Mine Has Been Idle for Many Months

For many months the Delos has been idle, it is stated that it is to be worked on a somewhat extensive scale. It is reported to be true, and no reason why it should not be, can be seen in saying it is not. As the copper mine is idle, it is not a surprise that it is not being worked. It is not a surprise that it is not being worked. It is not a surprise that it is not being worked.

THE OUTCROP.

CANTERBURY, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1901.

When the telegraph line is completed the Outcrop desires to give each issue a summary of the news from the outside world, but in order to do so we must have 100 more paid-up subscribers. The cost of telegraphing will necessarily be high and we cannot supply the news unless those who desire it assist by becoming subscribers.

The Sandon Paystreak is about right when it says, in writing about the Provincial revenue tax, that if the Government is going to exempt preachers it should go the route and exempt Salvation Army officers, Dowieites, Christian scientists, Siwash medicine men, Chinese josh agents and the whole pack who deal in opinions on the next world. So far as the legislature knows, one has as good title as the other.

It is really surprising the sudden turn government ownership of public utilities has taken in the past few months. A short time ago only a few papers advocated the policy but now they are nearing the majority throughout the Dominion. Many of the big dailies are now strong adherents of the policy, and it will not be surprising if in a few months they are advocates of the rest of the socialistic platform.

The member for North East Kootenay, the Hon W. C. Wells, Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, is without doubt or flattery the most diligent member of the cabinet. Not only does he attend to the many details of his responsible office with the greatest care and promptness, but he gives the same attention to everything concerning the interests of the district which he represents. We have yet to hear of any complaint against our member for neglect of duty. He, like the rest of humanity, is not infallible, yet he is a gentleman who can be depended upon to do everything in his power for the upbuilding of this riding.

The many compliments paid him by the press throughout the Province are striking evidences of proof in regard to his office. Of course, he cannot please everyone, and if in some localities throughout the Province people are displeased with the administration of his office, it must be expected. However, complaints are very scarce.

While Mr. Wells can be depended upon to look well after the interests of this riding, it must not be inferred that he is to be left alone in his good work. He must be upheld by the people who have placed him in his present responsible position.

Therefore, we would call the attention of the electors of this riding to the fact that they have, at least from a public point of view, done very little in this direction, and when the estimates are brought down they will have themselves to blame that the amount appropriated is not greater.

The Governor has endeavored to bring before the Government and the public generally the needs of the district and we believe that at least the more important public works will be provided for, but then there are numerous others that are just of as much consequence that should be carried out in order to bring this district to the front.

Then what is needed is a united effort not only of property owners, but of every man in the district, so that the many needs may be properly placed before the legislators at Victoria.

This is more necessary just now than has ever been the case, for from every district and town in the Province delegates have been sent to Victoria requesting assistance for every conceivable scheme, and memorials have been sent down by the barrelful.

In the face of this it must be admitted that if we could get anything we must fall in line and do likewise.

We have a divisional board of trade and Peterborough has a citizens' committee. The proper thing to do is to amalgamate the two and create a fund to be ready for use when delegates are needed for any purpose.

How can we expect our member to get all we need when every other member is busy introducing delegates—who clamor for alleged rights and necessities—and presenting memorials from their supporters, while he is alone with little to show that we want anything?

True, one or two memorials have been sent to Mr. Wells, but really nothing has been done in comparison with what other sections are doing.

Let us awaken! Let us unite! Let us help our representative! Let us help ourselves! The Lord helps those who help themselves, and so will the Legislature.

MAPLE SAP

They're burnin' pine an' hickory bark,
An' settin' beech, for I kin tell it.
They're settin' fence rails in the dark;
They're settin' pitch, for I kin smell it,
They're settin' a smoky tiller high
Above the woods aloft;
I might see a fiery eye
Glimmer thro' the maples like a star;
An' all day long a tinkling sound
Sublimes the drowsy creper's nap
In hundred buckets, big and round
Are full. Are full of what?—Of sap.
—The Khan.

They're burnin'! take a drink!
I'll clear yer skin and wash yer liver
In nature's cure—the best, I think—
An' nature's eye and red yer lip,
I'll stuff the ladie's cheeks with
—The Khan.

THEY DO BUSINESS RIGHT

The Cooks' and Waiters' Union of Pursis is conducting its affairs in a manner that cannot fail to win the admiration and assistance of employers of culinary mechanics. In that town a cook is compelled to give his employer a week's notice before leaving, otherwise he must pay one week's wages to the union. This protects the employer against loss and much inconvenience.
A Chinese cook on a boarding car recently quit his job without notice at Pursis, and the union supplied a man in his place. This is the kind of union that travels all over British Columbia, and it is a good thing so long as its members live up to their obligations.
